on that day. After his week's work he ns. He had said all during last week that be would hold a large meeting Sunday m afternoon, and his prophecy was certainly the tabernacle, and by half-past 3 every seat was taken. But the crowd still continued to come. Every space was appropriated, the aisles were rapidly filled, and at the doors, windows, and sides of the building hundreds stood and heard the sermon. They were all men, numbering fully 14,000.

After the singing of several bymns and the popular "Railroad Song," Rev. Mr. Martin, of Union-Station Methodist church offered a fervent prayer. This was followed by a short address by Mr. Gilbert I. Hunt, who stated that a collection would be taken up at that meeting as a present to Rev. Sam Jones and his colaborers; that they had not agreed to pay Mr. Jones anything for coming to Richmond, but thought it was a just reward for his services. Mr. J. Thompson Brown contributed $200; I. N. Vaughan. John P. Branch, and G. I. Hunt, $100 cach: R. H. Whitlock, $50; James C. Smith and another subscribed $25 each. A general collection was then taken up, and about $800 was realized.

Over three thousand people attended the service yesterday morning at the Tabernacle. The choir was also largely attended, and a great many of the Methodist clergy occupied seats on the platform. After several hymns were sung, and prayer offered by Rev. Mr. Wertenbaker, Dr. Garland made a statement. He said that the contributions made at the services had been a great surprise to him, that he could not explain it; that nothing like it had occurred in his ministerial life; that the sum collected for Mr. Jones and his co-laborers on Sunday had been so small that he was too humiliated by it to tell what it is; that the people attending the services had been asked to contribute, and that over a week had passed, and the sum had been hardly more than half realized, and that he earnestly asked the congregation to contribute liberally.

HIS REMARKS. YESTERDAY MORNING.

DIS REMARKS.

HIS REMARKS.

Mr. Jones took his text from the eighth chapter of Romans, first verse: "In Jesus Christ." Among other things, he said:

"This world and Christianity are growing. When you were young you could do a great deal as Christians you can't do now, some of you are so little. You could see through it a key-hold with both eyes, and you ain't cross-eyed either.

"Little fellows, just like one that says 'our church has got 300 members and that will make $300. Here's my dollar.

"Some of you card-playing, dancing, seventeen-year-old girls are going to evaporate before you get to H-aven.

"You are so little you are like tadpoles that have just shed their tails and got to be little frogs. When anything is ever said about the liberality of Richmend just remember this meeting, and tell the person to shut up. Now, I don't want you people to get mad with me. Get mad with yourself.

"And this meeting was started by the Methodists. The joke is on you fellows turning to the preachers! Aln't you sorry that the Methodists started by themselves? You don't call it a Methodist meeting now.

"The way some of you women are raising your daughters, you'll be raising corn some day. A girl ought to be able to play on the cooking stove as well as she can play on a piano. Many a man has been driven to a drunkard's grave by the biscuits that his wife made. And these are the very wives that cut pigeon wings in a ball room. When I wanted to get married I went into the country, and when I was first married I used to go in the kitchen and hug and kiss the cook as often as I liked. But my wife was doing the cooking all the time.

"A dude. That's a pimple on society that demonstrates that the blood is out of order. When you squeeze the pinple you make a NIGHT SERVICE.

About 12,060 people gathered at the Tabernacle at the service last night. After several hymns had been sung and Rev. Samuel P. Clopton offered prayer, Mr. Jones made a statement. He said that when Richmond was put on her mettle she could do anything, but she was not doing right in regards to the paying of the debt on the Tabernacle. "I am often approached," he continued, "by people who say, please stay Brother Jones for a long time, for we are going to have a good meeting. You are willing to work Sam Jones' lungs out, but you are not willing to plank down for the building." He said that he intended to raise some of the money still due at the meeting, and asked for men who would be willing to contribute a hundred dollars apiece. Two gentlemen contributed $100, and one gentleman contributed $400. He then started the ushers out with cards' for people who would contributel; ten or five dollars. By this method added to the $250 that had been contributed, about six hundred dollars were collected.

Mr. Jones said: "Six hundred have been contributed to night. We are getting there with both feet."

He took his text from the seventh chapter of $1. John, seventeenth verse: "If any man do His will, he shall know of the doc ter of St. John, seventeenth verse: "If any man do His will, he shall know of the doc trine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself. [Words of Christ.]

JOHN JASPER. "Galileo tried to teach that the world was revolving," said Mr. Jones, "around the sun. Richmond gives to the world the only opponent to this theory—John Jasper. So it was with the Christian religion. It had many skeptics when it was first told to the world."

Death of This Estimable Gentlems

The Funeral. A fold of black crape on the massive white door and the closed blinds to the winlows were "the outward and visible signs at No. 1110 Capitol street yesterday of the demise of that excellent gentleman, soldier and lawyer, Col. John H. Guy. Death resulted from congestion of the lungs.

Last Thursday the Colonel, while engaged in argument as one of the counsel for the defense in the Bettie Lewis Thomas case in the Chancery Court, was taken ill, and when the court adjourned he was too feeble to walk home. Since then he has been typy sick, and the end came at a quarter to 9 o'clock yesterday morning. He was fifty-eight years old, and had been in ill health for some time.

Colonel Guy received his education at Randolph-Macon College, and when he left there, returned to Goochland, the county of 's nativity, and formed a law partnership with Mr. John C. Rutherfoord. During the war, the Goochland Artillery, which he organized, bore a conspicuous part, and he distinguished himself as a brave officer. Afterwards he was elected State Senator, and at the close of the war returned to Goochland to practice his profession. In 1867 he removed to Richmond, and in 1870 Hon. A. M. Keiley, who was a member of the House of Delegatos, was elected Mayor, and Colonel Guy was elected as his successor in the House, where he at once became a leader. In the Kemper campaign Colonel Guy was chairman of the City Democratic Committee, and filled the position with ability.

Colonel Guy leaves a wife, who was Miss Ransom, of Charleston, W. Va., and three children—two of whom are daughters.

As a lawyer the Colonel stood among the foremost; as a man he was pure and noble, a lovable and loving, gentle and anniable. He had up centies. Few men had more admiring friends.

The funeral services will be held this ovening at 6 o'clock in St. Paul's Church.

Mr. Jones' sermon was a plain, practical talk, sandwiched considerably by his humor. He stated in conclusion that there would be a children's service next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, and requested all parents to send their children.

HE-NO TEA Our Great Unloading Sale

Starts in this morning. Choice of any MEN'S FINE SACK and CUTAWAY SUITS that were $25, $24, $23, $22, $20 and $18.

This great reduction sale will outdo, excel, exceed, surpass and overshadou any and all efforts that ever took place in the mid-season of June in any city in any country. Gentlemen who are particular (and we court the custom of all and best known mercantile houses such) are requested to call in the morning before the big rush of the afternoon comes surging in. We can then give them better attention.

Who live 50, 75, yes, even 100 miles away, will easily pay their expenses (bot) ways) by coming here and selecting their SUITS personally. If 'you come, think facing and other adult. of the great and magnificent stock from which you'll have to select. Come, by erations adopted to all means, if you can. If you can't, have wife, mother, daughter or sister to cheapen, and give a de-To give you an idea of the quality of these SUITS it is but necessary to se
